The earth whispers softly through the trees, As waves crash against the night sky. The stars rise above the horizon, Casting a gentle glow upon the shore. In the distance, a soothing melody fills the air, As the moon shines brightly against the canopy of stars. Tranquility prevails underneath, A sense of peace that creates a sound.